The Washington club broke even with he Pittsburgers yesterday in the doubleeader at National Park, losing the first game by the score of 11 to 4, and winning the second by the score of 10 to 2. With any sort of fair playing the Senators would have made it a double win, but sloppy work by Mercer and Bonner nullified the good pitching of Baker so that at last he went to pieces and was hit hard. It seemed an impossibility for Mercer to throw accurately to first base. In one inning O'Brien placed the ball right in his hands, yet he failed to hold it. Bonner could throw all right, but besides missing an apparently easy fly he seemed unable to hold the ball long enough to put out the runners. When the Senators can hammer Jesse Tannehill for twelve safe hits it would seem that a victory belonged to them, but the two Senators mentioned declared by their misplays that such was not to be the outcome. Mercer made some amends for his bad fielding by placing three hits to his credit, while Cassidy, besides fielding well, also lined out a double and two singles. In the second game McFarland started in to pitch for the Senators, but he was taken ill and had to retire, the veteran Weyhing going on the rubber and placing another victory to his credit, his work being of the gilt-edged order notwithstand-ing poor support. Mercer and Bonner ing poor support. Mercer and Bonner made themselves prominent in the second game also through bad plays, but the former slipped up only twice and the latter once, it being considered lucky that neither one had more chances offered to do harm. Slagle and Freeman made themselves prominent in the second game through their consistent stick work, the former getting three singles while "Ruck" through their consistent stick work, the former getting three singles, while "Buck" ripped off a home run, a triple and a single. Paine began the twirling for the Pirates, but he was so easy to solve that he was replaced in the third by Hoffer, the ex-Baltimore twirler. The Senators were out after hits in the second game and hammered Hoffer just as hard as his predecessor, swift and slow balls failing to fool the home batters a little bit.

If yesterday's games can be taken as an example, the Pittsburg club is not one per cent stronger than the Washingtons, their fielding being almost as poor as the Senators' and the large a fielding being almost as poor as the Sena-tors' and their batting not so good as the home club, as they had a weaker pitcher to oppose them.

In the first game the Senators' first two runs crossed the plate in the fifth inning. Cassidy hit into right and McGuire's double sent him to third. Freeman then hit to Madison. During the effort to catch Cassidy at the home plate, McGuire went down to second and came home on Padden's fine single to deen center. In the sixth lines to second and came nome on Padden's line single to deep center. In the sixth inning two more runs were chalked up to the Senators' credit, and then they quit. Bonner hit a single into left and came all the way home on Cassidy's double into right, the latter reaching third on Ely's wild throw. Freeman then hit into right for a single, and Cassidy scored. How the Pittsburgs made their 11 runs would be too long a story to tell, being mixed up with free hitting and heart-breaking errors.

Base Ball Briefs.

"Even Stephen," but it should have been two for the Senators.

Baker pitched well under the most trying circumstances. O'Brien is apparently doomed for minor league ranks. A hit by the big fellow at three different turns at the bat yesterday would have driven in two or more runs.

Beaumont made himself unpopular at the start off by yelling too much. When the errors came his way the bleachers took great delight in deriding him.

About 2,000 spectators took in the "double header," and many wished before the first game was over they had not come; but their attendance was repaid in the second. Mercer seemed to be afraid to let out his throwing arm yesterday. He is a beautiful throwing arm yesterday. He is a beautiful thrower and generally cuts loose toward first with the speed of a bullet, but all his throws were short yesterday.

Cassidy at first is all right, his work yesterday having of the gilt edged order handiterday being of the gilt-edged order, handi-capped as it was by poor throwing. At the apped as it was by poor throwing. At the at Pete also showed up well.

"Buck" Freeman's hit off Payne in the second game can be placed under the title "longest ever," the ball going into the bleachers at the far end of right field on Manager-Captain Patsy Donovan is the same gingery player of old, and, with Tannehill, is about the only first-class player on the Pittsburg team. Donovan was continually coaching his men yester-day to keep playing hard, his hitting and base running in the first game going a long way toward landing the victory. Williams, Pittsburg's new third baseman. did not create a sensation at National Park yesterday. He undoubtedly handles him-self well and with experience should prove all right; but he has a long trip in front of him before he gets into the Collins-Wallace-Cross class.

Little Madison was rattling around in Pepper' Reitz's shoes at second yester-lay. Madison is a shortstop and may do

"Pepper" Reitz's shoes at second yester-day. Madison is a shortstop and may do well in that position, but at second base he is full of flaws and crevices, grounders and flies getting away from him with mo-notonous regularity. The Washington spec-tators were disappointed in not seeing the ex-Senator in the game. Yesterday's exhibition behind the bat by Ruiler demonstrates conclusively what a Butler demonstrates conclusively what a great folly it would be to let Jim McGuire slip away from Washington. Butler and Heydon are doubtless good minor league. catchers, but when compared with "Old Reliable" they are made to look like nov-

He is known as one of the pluckiest backstops in the business, but in yesterday's second game he certainly went up in the air. Cassidy was coming home like the wind, and as the ball struck Bowerman's hands Pete started to slide feet first. Not caring to lose a leg or two Bowerman jumped in the air and made a bluff at touching Cassidy, but O'Day was right on the spot and called the runner safe. Dick Padden is a big favorite among the Pittsburg players, and during yesterday's games he and the visitors were continually exchanging little pleasantries. The ex-Pirate certainly worked hard to down his old comrades, one of the stops made his old comrades, one of the stops made from Bowerman's bat being sensational.

"If we only had a few more Slagles in the Washington club," is the cry heard at every game at National Park. Jimmy is slowly but surely rounding into his true form, his fielding being accurate, and he gets on the bases with noticeable regularity. Jimmy's energetic spirit is what the spectators like, the little fellow working hard until the last man is out ing hard until the last man is out.

It is very probable that the patrons of It is very probable that the patrons of National League games have seen the last of Arlie Latham. He did not accompany the Senators west and will probably be released in a day or two. The Chicago spectators were given a rude shock yesterday, when the Orioles sailed into their team of supposed champions and made them look like lobsters, outbatting and outfielding the Colts from start to finish. the report is true.

President Young is being blamed by the western scribes for not having umpires at St. Louis last Sunday. It should be understood that Messrs. Brush and Rebison magnates can change date without notifying any one, and inday's game in St. Louis came about in this way. The original schedule called for the game in Cincin at, but when it was discovered that the Clevelands would be transferred to the mound city, Messrs. Brush and Robison arranged a schedule to suit themselves, and President Young was not notified of the change. Don't blame "Uncle Nick" when he is innocent; hammer the western magnate and supposed dictator.

It was reported in New York yesterday that on arrival in St. Louis the New York team will be managed by Joyce. Protests are being made to Andrew Freedman by friends of the club, but he says that he will do as he pleases, and that if Joyce does not want his job of last year, then Doyle will get the place. Doyle is in New York walting for orders, and Joyce is already in St. Louis. ready in St. Louis.

CURRENT CYCLING CHAT.

The American Racing Cyclists' Union, the organization of the crack professional riders of the country, held a business meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Rock Springs Hotel, and transacted considerable business of importance. All of the riders in the local colony attended. A number of applications were acted upon.

One result of the meeting was the arawing of the color line. Last fall, when the association was formed, Major Taylor, the colored sprinter, was permitted to join, but later in the season he deserted, and returned to the fold of the League of American Wheelmen, under whose rules he now races At the meeting Wednesday it was decided to permit no colored riders to join the organization, and to permit no colored riders to participate in race meets with white riders. The meeting also went on record as not opposing the National Cycling Association, in the event that organization cared to issue a sanction for race meets, where only colored riders would be allowed to participate. A resolution was also adopted, which was presented at a called meeting of the board of managers of the N. C. A. yesterday at New York city, requesting that one paragraph in the racing rules be changed relating to the registration of trainers. The paragraph in question calls for a fee of $2 for every trainer of a professional rider. The riders ask the revocation of the matter on the ground that very few have regularly employed trainers this year, and that this is due to the fact that they have to cut down expenses. They intend to pick up rubbers at the places where they race, and under the rules every time a rubber was employed he would have to be registered.

All of the crack riders in the colony at Rock Springs Hotel, with the exception of Eddie Bald, left town Thursday morning on a 10 o'clock train, to participate in the opening N. C. A. race of the season this afternoon at Ambrose Park, New York city, under the control of Nate Salsbury. The party arrived in New York city in L.e. afternoon, and continued their training. party arrived in New York city in the afternoon, and continued their training.

A telegram was received yesterday morning by Mr. J. D. Lasley asking him to send a triplet, as Moran, Cooper and Kiser had decided to ride it and enter the multicycle race of this afternoon. The triplet was sent over without delay. Moran will ride in all of the professional events, and a good showing is expected of him. in all of the professional events, and a good showing is expected of him.

The program of the races in New York this afternoon has already been published in The Star. It was known that there would be plenty of professionals, but some doubt was expressed in regard to the amateurs. This doubt has been dispelled. A field of 125 amateurs has entered, including all of the crack riders and embracing teams from Yale, Princeton and Columbia universities. Collett, Hausman, Rutz, Van Cott, Kramer, Schofield, Torrence, Wahrenberger and all the other "simon pures" of the east have entered. The professional entries number sixty-five.

The advance entry blanks for the opening race meet at the Baltimore Colosseum have made their appearance. The race will be held Friday evening, May 26, two days after the race in this city, and will be run under the N. C. A. sanction. While the advance blank is subject to change, only two professional events are scheduled. They are:

One-mile handigap—Prizes first $50, 200 One-mile handicap—Prizes, first, $50; second, $25; third, $15; fourth, $10.

The jubilee race meet in this city will be held Wednesday afternoon, the races to start at 4 o'clock. The time has been ex-tended to 4 o'clock in order to give spectaters a chance to witness the civic parade of the peace jubilee, which commences at 2 o'clock. The parade will, it is thought, be over in an hour, and by making the first race start at 4 o'clock an additional hour will be allowed in which to reach the track.

Captain Byrnes did not call a run last Sunday and as a result but few members of the club appeared on the local roads. A small party of Centurions, under command of First Lieutenant Wm. C. O'Clock. The advance sale of tickets to the meet has been wonderful, and the public seems to be taking an interest in the event. tickets were placed on sale yesterday, but prior to that day orders were taken for many of the box seats and other choice reserved seats, and yesterday an unusually large number were disposed of.

There will be a good field of starters, and it will be necessary to run trial heats. The professional class will be a representative one, including the cracks of the country, while the amateurs are showing up strong-ly, and yesterday afternoon something like twenty-five had entered. Manager William Jose has gone to New York and is expected to get a good list of amateur and professional riders this afternoon for the jubilee meet. He is particularly anxious to get the crack amateurs, many of whom are desi. ous of coming down. Kramer, the one-mile champion; Collett, the two-mile champion, and Hausman, the five-mile champion, all amateurs, who secured the honor last year under the league rules, are expected, and also Ertz. Schofield and others

Arthur Fournier, the ex-champion of France, will give his exhibition to make a mile in 1:40 or less with his automatic cycle. He will ride a tandem, Arthur A. Zimmerman steering, and Fournier on the rear seat working the motors. This will be the first appearance of the motor cycle in this city, the machine making a great impression at Madison Square Garden last winter. This motor cycle will be used in furnishing pace for all of the middle dis-tance events this season, revolutionizing the sport to a certain extent, and reducing considerably the cost of such races.

The events and prizes for the opening eet Wednesday are as follows, the entries to the same not closing until Tuesday after-professional; $200 purse, with entry fee added, 50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent to first, second, third and fourth men, respectively. second and third men, respectively.

There will also be several special events on the program, including the motor-cycle exhibition. The prize list represents over $600 in cash for the professional riders and an even $100 for the amateurs.
